In my opinion the GUI examples provided with U++ are enough, but it really lacks examples for sockets and web packages.

Yeah, there are a few simple examples using Http. But there's no big example, for example a GUI chat program.
So, it doesn't show how the Web packages work when using the GUI framework.