The problem, to finish the projects actually absent. In fact takes place quite another. Work periodically comes new. It will periodically need to do. Of course I can technologically do all the work (U++ helps with repeating from project to project code), but I periodically do not have time. Work is quite inexpensive (in terms of Finance), so willing to cooperate very little. However, those projects are not public, so put them in open access is wrong. That's what I said.
