Hi Mirek,

I get them running in release mode with or without debugging information on and with (F5) or without (Ctrl+F5) debugging.

If the crashes didn't happen when trying to run as a straight release executable then it wouldn't be a problem. I was debugging only to try to find more information.

If you can't reproduce this, perhaps it would be useful for us to have a gotomeeting where you can see the behaviour on my machine. Let me know if you think this could help and we can setup a time by email.
