Posted by forlano on Sat, 17 Jun 2006 18:26:21 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

dyblast wrote on Sat, 17 June 2006 19:43how do that then? i don't do that ...

Hello Dyblast,

I've worked with devcpp in the last 3 years. It worked pretty well and has a simple interface.
Now I've simply uninstalled it because it is very... VERY... inadequate for using with U++. In fact all the documentation of U++ can be easily accessed with its TheIDE (Topic++, Navigate, etc...).
With Devcpp I guess you cannot use the library for lack of documentation.

Regards,
Luigi