there is a script auto-executed when a terminal open, its name is ".${SHALL}rc" if your shall is bash (the default) then the file is ".bashrc" compare the one in your Home directory with the one in the root directory, i think the source of problem is here.

Regards
omari.I had hopes for this, but when I tried doing a "source ./.bashrc" in the root terminal in my own home directly, I still had a missing panel on the left in TheIDE. Where is the configuration file for TheIDE kept? That may be the problem.
