in the root terminal, try this:

source /home/[user]/.bashrc

(replace [user] by your user name)

Regards

omaril tried that. No difference in TheIDE's behavior. Just to be 100% I was getting the right .bashrc, I changed my home .bashrc to colorize the prompt. I think that TheIDE is getting some initialization from a different place if it's running under root.
