You can still use namespaces even if you are "using".

You're right, I just don't like it

Anyway, name clashes happen, in this particular case I would mind renaming to ReportDraw, but it would be backward incompatibility...

Yes, that's a pity. All my bigger projects have their own uppsrc copy and that's why I never think about backward compatibility. I think that from time to time we could consider breaking it to clean up broken things or to introduce better design (like rgba Color in Draw)
