Hi Koldo,
I apologize for blaming painter. The printout for painter and draw are the same indeed. And it is exactly what you see on the preview. But what you see on the preview is depending on the size of the scatter window. Only then when I use the minimum size (or standard)on windows (XP pro or then I get the whole window in the report. On Windows XP home or Ubuntu a little part is missing even then. See attached PDF export.

If you want to see the effect at largest you maximize the scatter test window and request a print preview from there.

MfG
Manfred
