Subject: Re: [Visual Studio 2012] error LNK2019: unresolved external symbol
Posted by ManfredHerr on Wed, 06 Nov 2013 17:55:45 GMT

No, I can't. U++ expects to be used with TheIDE rather than VS. If you followed the installation procedure properly your desktop will show a link to TheIDE. Give it a try!

If you insist on VS as IDE, read the development forum. There has been some effort, but I do not know the results.

By the way, if you prefer cookbooks like MS and hate to dig into code, hints and examples then U++ is probably not the right tool to use.