Well, there is single new user registered since yesterday and he might be genuine. So the only remaining problem with bots and spammers now is here http://www.ultimatepp.org/forums/index.php?t=actions&

- I mean, you can see there they are still trying, but are now refused. Them still trying has some small negative impact on traffic bandwidth being wasted and some CPU resources dedicated, but nothing I would loose sleep about. IMO we can consider the "spam issue" resolved for now.

Especially, I am no big fan of elaborated captchas - too often I am unable to decode them myself :)

Now new Forum members joined from 19 June 2012 on without messages seem to be deleted. IMHO many members that do not post are real and should remain.

I believe I have only deleted 'new' accounts created after new forum was installed.
