It's up and running http://upp-thewatchdog.rhcloud.com/results :d First results are in, for now only for GCC in debug mode, I might add CLANG and/or release mode later...

I'm not sure if I use correct settings, I just run tests for everything in autotest assembly. But that can be always fixed later. I guess this is sufficient for demonstration purposes.

Also, there is a bug with timings, the start times are 6 hours shifted, because the server is in different time zone than the client, so please ignore this till I fix it ;)

Honza