Good work.

I like "fade-out" screenshots a lot. Please use them instead of those jagged.

Notes:

- remove "NTL" notes. It is not very important at that point and it even is not true (Core was always Core, just in short period, before releasing U++ as public project, as first try, I extracted container classes from the Core, named them "NTL" and released).
- maybe you should note that the very first compile can take a bit long and why (because U++ has libraries in source form and they have to be compiled first time, but are cached afterwards).
- typo: "Arrage the widgets so it looks like" - Arrange?
- maybe a screenshot of final application?
