My hardware is older thinkpad (X200s) with Intel U2300 processor with @1.2GHz and 4Gb RAM.

Just tried with NOGTK version of theIDE and it feels significantly better. Still I can sometimes type faster than the screen updates, but it happens a lot less then with GTK version. So it really seems to be related to the backend.

Perhaps it would be possible to test CodeEditor alone, just to isolate the possible cause? (With both backends).

Also, what is your GTK2.0 version?
