Subject: Re: U++ 2015.2 released (rev 9251)
Posted by cbpporter on Mon, 14 Dec 2015 12:13:38 GMT

Well the debugger is still very unreliable. It sometimes jumps way too much when stepping over. I press F10 and it sometimes leaves me at a random point in the execution timeline that executes the line I have skipped. Using F11 to step into and the stepping over until the function calls end will suppress this skipping operation. If I put a breakpoints in the code that is skipped, it won't trigger.