Is using "Co" as prefix for all things multithreaded a good idea?

I think the other name in current situation (We have CoWork) doesn't make sense. Maybe just ParallelSort and ParallelWork is good alternative, if we take into account my first argument it is not. Is Co from Cooperation?

Moreover I think that, the good idea is to make parallel image scaling in Draw.

Well, coworker is somebody who works with you, so the idea was that CoWork is something done with multiple agents :)

Anyway, the reason why I ask is that "coroutines" have established meaning and are sort of opposite of multithreading.
