Hello,

The bug is true! It is funny, because it's only stuck only in right direction. Try to move from right to left :) It would be hard to repair, because the tab order is dynamically change. So we should remember direction and last visited tab to fix this? It would be good if original author of this feature uttered in this thread.

For now you can turn off this feature and use hockeys normally (Personally, I don't use stacking).
