Update: if I use WIN32 flag along with GUI and MT, then I get a problem with rc-files. If I just add a -DflagWIN32 common option, then everything compiles, but TheIDE is still linking against Linux libs ...

You would need "cross-compiling" ide... (does not exist at the moment).

Why not just use wine and current nightly build? Works like charm. (Actually, nightly build is built this way - wine mingw).
