Subject: Re: forum posts format
Posted by dolik.rce on Sun, 22 May 2016 10:48:49 GMT

Hi Neil,

It is simply because FUDforum is threaded by design. It's not a matter of setup, it is just something that many forum implementations do. The readability of discussions is not really depend on it, any flat discussion can be a mess too, often even more then threaded.

You can see the relations between posts in each posts header. It explicitly states to which message it replies. To see it even better, there is a tree view. You can switch to between flat and tree view using a button on top of each forum page, just above topmost message.

Best regards,
Honza