Subject: Members of structure are finally accessible through plain index
Posted by Mindtraveller on Tue, 24 May 2016 16:12:16 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Yes we all know that C++ is statically typed language so there's a problem detecting class/structure members in runtime. Finally this situation seem to change in C++11/C++14 (I mean all the modern compilers).
Please note this small library:
https://github.com/apolukhin/magic_get
It could possibly be handy for automatic serialization/xmlization/jsonification of U++ structures.