Subject: Re: U++ 2017 beta
Posted by mirek on Sun, 25 Dec 2016 08:52:50 GMT

I guess this might be related to this:

 http://www.ultimatepp.org/forums/index.php?t=msg&th=9818 &start=0&

Personally, I would prefer removing .spec file altogether.

.rpm based distros are Spanish village for me. IMO, our responsibility for nightly builds / releases should stop at producing tarball with makefile which builds (perhaps after some package installs) on any most targets. Platform specific packages should be out of ultimatepp.org responsibility... There are too many target platforms to maintain directly...

Mirek