On the click of a button, if we want to perform some type of action, we can specify:

myPanel.someBtn << THISBACK(doThis);

"doThis" is a local method that's executed on the click of the button, "someBtn". If wanting to for example call a method of an already created object, how does one specify something like:?

myPanel.someBtn << THISBACK(canvas.doThis);

Is there a way to do this, call a method of an object?
