
Subject: Re: Syntax highlighting - Settings being over written with defaults

Posted by mr_ped on Sat, 24 Jun 2017 11:40:41 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

I can confirm TheIDE looks simply wrong in dark theme out of box (I mean unusably wrong).

I just recently reinstalled my desktop and went form Breeze-dark theme, and TheIDE doesn't neither set up all the colors, nor does it have any heuristic for light/dark theme, so this is the default setup result:

screenshot: <http://umsle.peklo.biz/img/1498304115.png>

Also this forum does set colours completely, so for example adding this post looks like this:

screenshot2: <http://umsle.peklo.biz/img/1498304415.png>

Desktop is KDE5, so both IDE and firefox have disadvantage in being not KDE/Qt app, and being under GTK override from it.
