

---

Subject: Re: RLOG in Linux

Posted by Giorgio on Fri, 14 Sep 2018 14:11:26 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

I just checked and did not find any .upp directory. I have noticed instead that in /var/log/messages there is a bunch of those logging entries. Strange thing, the system logged them all at the same moment (09:29:29 AM ) even if they have been generated in different moments (I know when they have been generated because I log also the date and time). It seems like they have been in some sort of cache since some event made the application to log them all together. Maybe after ROLOG() I have to put DUMP() or something else?

---