

---

Subject: Re: RLOG in Linux

Posted by Oblivion on Mon, 17 Sep 2018 09:28:20 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

Hello Giorgio,

I have no .upp directory in user's home directory,

AFAIK, this directory is available (and may (?) have another name) if you have U++/Theide deployed on your machine.

A simple way to find that directory:

Open Theide, run your application (or any example code) once, via Theide, and then select Theide->Build (menu) -> Open output directory from the menu.

By default, that directory should be under the .upp (or whatever its name is)

Best regards,
Oblivion

---