Pradip

Instead of developing new ERP consider using open source ERP.

I suggest ERPNext. Check features before you start development.

It has active community. And truly open source like UPP.

You may require some customization based on your needs.