qwerty wrote on Sun, 10 September 2006 20:06 just an idea chit chat: what do you think about .NET, (un)managed code, mono project, upp... ?

I don't like virtual machines... they run noticeable slower (at least startup time is much longer).

And NET is for one platform only... (I don't know how mono advanced is)

One of main reason java and net became popular was ease of gui programming. With upp coding is even easier and you can have one exe file with native code and small memory footprint..
