

---

Subject: Re: Citing U++ in a paper

Posted by koldo on Wed, 18 Dec 2019 08:23:40 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

Maybe if you use some technology included in U++ with scientific content related to your research, you may cite it.

For example, in a paper, as I used the ScatterDraw/Eigen data fitting features, I referred to MINPACK (Jorge Moré, Burt Garbow, and Ken Hillstom, see this).

---