Subject: Re: Linux U++ libraries
Posted by Lance on Sun, 29 Mar 2020 18:49:41 GMT

Quote:That is as designed. They get created the first time theide runs.

Except the build method is not created upon the first run. Something is missing. I have deleted the .upp folder before make install and have to fight with an ide not configured with any build method. If build method generation happens at all, like it does in windows, nobody will notice anything and make complaints.