Sure.

They could keep the old umk binary in place and only upgrade their application without touching it.

I will create a pool for fun.
This is a lot of work so I can understand why it's an hard step. I'm still working on the new u++ install process and it takes time too (less, but still).

edit: here is the pool   https://www.ultimatepp.org/forums/index.php?t=msg&th=109 91
