Actually, I feel your problem - I am thinking about how to allow such "mixed mode" for some time now. Unfortunately have not found an easy solution yet.

Hello Mirek,

Maybe my naive point of view make my intervention inappropriate but since TheIDE already have way to configure for each package the debug info level, maybe it could be easier to also implement a "custom Release option / fixed flags / release link options for each package" ? (maybe I'm completely wrong and there is nothing to do with the configuration of debug info level)

That is definitely possible. I somehow wanted something more sophisticated, but I guess this simple method should be enough.
