You already gave me all key points to check in my code - thank you - if it is working with mingw_that_is build in U++ - then will be ok anyway... just it started to work when I started to shorten it... I will check everything again taking into consideration all your advices - :) it can appear to be quicker then to shorten the code & leaving the error...
p.s.
for any case - I've read this topic - Win32 TLS & this - release 2019.2 (Aug) - workaround for Mingw TLS performance issue - to remember whether I have this in v.13664 - if I will need it... or to change my design... just for info... but I will check thoroughly how do I pass parameters to the Class doing loading stuff & how do I make destruction of its objects in order then to exit thread-function correctly
