Hello Oblvion,

You are now officially U++ author. Congratulations for all your long term effort you have putted in U++ development. We appropriate it and congratulations! Right now I am responsible of putting people into credits section, so in the near future I will probably create separated pined forum thread to gather all people that are not present in the credits section.

I would like to say that for U++ it is very important to respect all contributors in the credits section. I know that today many software has anonymous authors especially this software commercially developed. The authors are only present in the version control history. If that history will gone then the information was lost. We do not want to follow that path. We are glad for even the smallest help and we respect it.

Klugier