Hello Jey,

Thanks for the information. I added additional information to 2020.1 change-log in Roadmap:

2020.1 (rev. 14429) (May 2020)

Win32 release does not contain 32-bit TheIDE version anymore. Only 64-bit version is bundled. If you want to use U++ on 32-bit Windows 2019.2 is recommended for you.

It should be available on the website tomorrow. I hope it will help people to get this important information.

Klugier
