Subject: Is Upp:: output necesarry in *.lay files?

Once one opens older layout files with new layout designer(after upp-13664),
"Upp::" is prepended/added to all layout-files controls.
This is many times undesirable since not all control may be a part of Upp:: namespace.
For now, i have to use older upp-ver(13664:2019.2 or lower) to correctly compile code without errors.
At least some option somewhere would be ok to prepend this or not.

By the way, where has bazaar folder went in a few new versions?
I also don't find it on github.
