1): Derive MyPanel from ImageCtrl to supply customized Paint and Key is the right thing to do, at the moment at least, unfortunately.

By this sentence, I mean what you have done with MyPanel is correct and necessary. I am also hinting that, what you are expecting, to be able to tailor an object's behavior by supplying some callbacks instead of having to define new class for something quite trivial, is reasonable. Unfortunately due to cost concerns etc., is currently unavailable, except for some Ctrl derivatives who indeed supply one.
