OK, removed those unsupported colors.

There is one more complication: At least in Win10, Win32 actually does not return dark colors in dark mode, so we are basically "flipping" normal colors to dark (we detect this situation where the theme is dark, but COLOR_WINDOW is light, see CtrlLib/ChWin32.cpp:377). How does it behave in Win11? Do they return dark colors now?

As to actual scheme, I am ready to accept any suggestions. Not sure what to do with all this mess...
