Example: You design a layout. Now you want another layout to be the same size with the same controls in it, but making a few changes. Instead of redesigning the second layout, you could just copy and paste the other layout, give this new copy a name and edit it.
Please think about it!

Hi,

What I do now is, outside the IDE, e.g. in File Explorer, make a copy of the .lay file. Then change its file name, layout name and insert it into the project.

Best Regards,
Yeoh
