I think there must be a temporary bug in FreeBSD 13.2. I would wager the problem is either that openssl headers are not compatible with libraries.

IDK, if this is was to be pursued, I would start by searching for `SSL_get_peer_certificate` and `SSL_get1_peer_certificate` in header files. I bet there is something like

#define SSL_get_peer_certificate SSL_get1_peer_certificate

somewhere which probably means not our fault...
