Not sure how to reproduce this one, I just know that it only happens on wayland.

After a period of development if you start typing theIDE will just freeze. You kill it, reopen it and try typing again, it will freeze again. A gdb external session indicates it's stuck in an infinite loop waiting for input from the clipboard. I've tried clearing the global clipboard and it still freezes. When I switch to X11 the problem goes away. I'll try to get a backtrace on it next time it happens.

EDIT Just remembered something: I have been able to get it to break out of the loop by copying something into the clipboard from another app.
