Was not a priority so far. Can be done I think, we already have all pieces ready (rectangular selection, paste in column). Keep asking and it will happen.

I keep asking, occasionally :

Anyway, the multiline edit mode doesn't need to be activated by that selection box - it was just an example image as I couldn't find anything better.

When you want to edit multiple lines at once in Visual C++ or Notepad++, you just press Alt+Shift+Down or Up arrow so the cursor is extended to another line(s).

Then the text is entered to all lines where the cursor is as you type it in.
