Subject: Re: Endian specific source changes, for Universal support.
Posted by mirek on Fri, 08 Dec 2006 10:12:58 GMT

lundman wrote on Fri, 08 December 2006 03:32
Correct, but specify both options and gcc will do both passes for you automatically. But it is possible to completely compile both archs separately and then join them at the end using lipo.

I would rather vote for this option. While debugging, you will be using just one mode anyway....
And for release, this is not that problem, moreover TheIDE can use lipo as well (in future).

Mirek