
Subject: Re: Something to learn from....

Posted by zsolt on Wed, 13 Dec 2006 22:59:20 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

I think, the main problem with U++ is that it is too good for these folks.

It is very hard to sell anything, that has the best solutions to almost every problems on an area.

They believe that it is not true, just a lie.

And they are too lazy to read the docs.

Maybe we have to learn marketing...

Quote: Their IDE is silly too, I've no idea how to add a new file to an empty project.

Is this a programmer???
