IMHO you can use some MS OLE/COM/Whatever_they_use_now interface to access Excel's functionality and use excel itself for the conversion.

- a) you need Excel (windows only)
- b) .NET will be probably much better platform to get into such things.
- c) I don't follow MS technologies, so I can't help more.

Another longshot may be to try use command line and Open Office calc to convert the files. While I do use Open Office almost daily, I don't know if you can run such conversion from command line or by some other means, sorry.
