Hi fallingdutch!

I found the thread you linked a few weeks ago. But it doesnt help, because I do not know, where to implement this piece of code. Will I have to create a new class based on HttpClient and put this code in some socket functions?

You also wrote, that openssl is included in upp. I played around with httpclient only once - but was not able to run any ssl demo, because of missing openssl-files. Maybe now it will work. I will download the last release next week and try again.
