Maybe I did something wrong, because not understood how up packages should work:

Things are getting messy

Well, to summarize: You have two options:

- Remove OleDb support for now. That involves commenting #include and removing OleDb package from the project. Please try this first, you can add OleDb back later. Note that your last reply on this way indicated that you commented the #include, but failed to remove the OleDb package.

- Alternatively, install the part of SDK dealing with OLE DB.
