datagrid.Add(sql[1], sql[2], sql[3], sql[4], sql[5], sql[6]);

or like in your case if you store sql values in array ctrl one by one this row can be written simply as:

datagrid.Add(sql);

good point, but what if i dont want to display the first sql value?

datagrid.Add(sql) adds all sql values from 0 to 6. can i use something like sql[1-6]? (Ok, tried but did not work)
