int Find(const Value& k) const   { return list.Find(k); }

instead of
int Find(const Value& k) const   { return key.Find(k); }

Now FindKey is a copy of Find.

It's rather obsolete name. Naming there would be "FindValue" for what you suggest.

The "value" of DropList is always its key (little bit confusing if you write it down , so unless there is "Value" in method name, it is about the key.
