obviously with no results. Since I make this error in Windows all the time,too, why not implement this useful feature in it?

Well, I was thinking about it, but I am not yet sure it is a good idea. If nothing else, my "etalons" (Openoffice, Firefox) do not do it. Also, Win32 does not have system infrastructure for doing so (but we can build one).

(a little OT, could default forum text-field be stretched to automatically fill the entire horizontal space? I can't say why but I feel a little unconfortable writing in this restricted box)

Not sure what are you reffering, it seems to fill it for me...
