It's a little bit "busy" but I think it's ok. PHPBB gets a bit boring because it's everywhere.

IMO forum design should follow the main page design. At the beginning please change this ugly background color to white.
And center the forum tables (now they are aligned to the left).

I had tried to change background to upp.sourceforge.net color and to white but in those cases the coloured and some iconic buttons, and some text nearly or completely dissapear... So bear with this design for the time being while I'm preparing new templates... And enjoy the navigational functionality many forums don't have.

P.S e.g, you can switch to "tree view" and reply to a particular message...

Yes, tree view is what I miss in phpbb and similars.

Could you also restore showing upper and lower letters to "normal". Now it looks like big letters are capitals and small letters are "big letters".

about the letters: I guess you need to clear tmp cache or/and refresh your browser (ctrl+F5), those were only temporary by accident..
