Hi all,

I have to say that so far I have posted 2 questions (one general and one bug issue) on this forum and both have been answered very quickly.

I am surprised that U++ is not more popular and that others in the c++ community have not even heard of it so I have been bringing it to their attention.

I directed a couple of guys (who currently use GTK, FLTK and QT) to the U++ website yesterday and they are both impressed and both of them were surprised that they had never heard of it before now.

It is not clear whether or not U++ is fully supported on Mac if it is then it needs to be added to a few areas of this site including the downloads section.

Although I am still just playing around and have not tried to build anything of use yet I am liking U++ more and more every day.
